At the request of the Elden, the Forsaken, a Great Samael (powerful demon lord) was summoned to aid a mortal nation in defeating an army of evil. The Samael had restrained his power and remained as a man, but was still called the Only One. With the power of the Great Samael, he and his partner, the Forsaken, vanquished the army and bound the demon god that caused the destruction. This Elderbound World was spared from the Great Samael's power. An apocalypse of unimaginable destruction tore across the Great Samael's world, and the Forsaken alone defended the Lands Between. However, the Elden were awakened and began recruiting humans with the power of the Great Samael, forming the Horde. They have now taken over the lands below the heavens and are now the rulers of a country. In addition, they continue to gather humans who have the power of the Forsaken, and are setting out to conquer the Lands Between. In the midst of this, the Elden shall pass through the Lands Between and leave the Forsaken. As a human of the Lands Between, you have been summoned to complete this fight. immunosuppressive treatment in acute renal allograft rejection: a prospective randomized study. Eighty-eight patients with acute renal allograft rejection that failed to respond to prednisone and azathioprine (Group 1) received 1-2 infusions of four weekly doses of cyclosporin-A (CSA; initially 400 mg/d) with no difference in rejection-free and overall graft survival (TFS--71% and OS--80%) in comparison with another group of 56 patients treated with a single dose of CSA and placebo infusion at that time. However, a graft survival of 50% was obtained in rejecting patients within 3-6 days of CSA, if they were not treated with steroids. This group of patients was subsequently randomized to receive repeated methylprednisolone (group 2) or to a waiting list (group 3). At 3 months, the graft survival in group 2 was superior to that of group 3 (TFS--61.8% vs. 18.8% and OS--73.4% vs. 44.2%). A graft survival of 90% was reached in the CSA group, and at 12 months TFS was 55% and OS 100%. These results demonstrate that CSA is an effective drug in acute renal allograft rejection and can be used as a single dose early in the course of the treatment, without an increased incidence of acute rejection in the subsequent months of treatment. In rejecting patients who do not respond to single-dose CSA therapy, multiple doses of CSA (according to a double-blind placebo-controlled study) showed a significant improvement in graft survival.
